Nourishing. Healing. Ethical.

Belmondo reminds us to take part in the daily ritual of caring for yourself. This natural skin care line brims with earth-grown goodness that your body recognizes and uses to heal and beautify itself. All products are made in small batches, produced locally, and product testing is done only on willing two-legged friends, never on animals. Check them out online and at selected retail locations.

Q&A

What are your most popular products or services?

The Rain—a gentle, invigorating face cleanser that’s simple and effective and the Cloud—a smoothing, velvety face cream, by far the top seller.

What tip would you give women who are starting a business?

A wise mentor recently shared with me her great philosophy: “Correct and continue.”

What motivates you on a daily basis?

Customer feedback. When I know a product has had an impact on someone and I’ve made a difference, there is no better motivator.

What place inspires you and why?

The world. There is so much greatness happening every day and we have a lot to learn from one another. It’s an inspiring and beautiful place to be.
